

LINKS WITH OTHER SECTORS

Faculty professors, related to the program, executed a technological development project to strengthen and extend the coverage and infrastructure of the telecommunications network of the State of Puebla. In this project, during 2010, 27 communication links were installed and put into operation to increase the coverage of the network and to bring wireless internet services to remote communities. The project was funded by mixed funds from the Federal Government, through CONACyT (Mexican Council for Research), with an amount of $6,816,599.00 M. N.

Another effort is a project where a system of telecommunications and signal processing was developed for monitoring of forest fires in the State of Puebla, also with funding from joint funds, through CONACyT, with an amount of $1,300,000.00 M. N. In this project, where video cameras are installed on a telecommunications towers, signals are transmitted wirelessly to a processing unit that continuously analyzes video in search of smoke. The ultimate goal of the project is the early detection of fire in order to reduce damage to the environment and extinguishing time.

List of companies and public sectors with bonding with the program faculty has been:

- Volkswagen
- General Electric
- SICOM - system communications of the State of Puebla
- Secretariat of environment and natural resources of the State of Puebla
